

Roger Stonecipher, ISIS Chief Executive Officer

Roger Stonecipher has more than 20 years of experience in the telecom systems and power business. Before becoming CEO of Lineage Power, Stonecipher was vice president of Power Systems for Tyco Electronics, where he was responsible for positioning the division for long-term growth and profitability.

Before joining Tyco, Stonecipher led several organizations at Lucent Technologies, including Power Systems product management and marketing for BMP, Energy Systems and Services, PAD and Custom Power, and product management and marketing within the Power Systems Energy business. During his tenure with Lucent, Stonecipher also managed global manufacturing planning and started a new Product Realization Center for the Wireless Networks business unit in Silicon Valley. Roger began his career with AT&T as an engineer in manufacturing.

Stonecipher earned a Bachelor's Degree in Civil Engineering from the University of Louisiana. He also has a Master's Degree in Industrial Engineering from Purdue University and a Master's Degree in Business Administration from Oklahoma City University. He and his wife Karen have four children and reside in the Dallas area.